Draft Work Programmes for 2026–2027 Now Available

Published on: 26/06/2025

In recent weeks, the European Commission has published the draft Work Programmes for the final two years of Horizon Europe in the Comitology Register.

These drafts are intended to help prepare in advance for upcoming calls for proposals. However, it is important to note that they are provisional documents and may be subject to changes. Only the documents published on the EU Funding and Tenders Portal once officially adopted by the EC are legally binding. For this reason, topics, their descriptions or scope, as well as budgets or call opening and closing dates, may be adjusted before final approval.

Below, we include links to the available documents:

Research scope of the Thermochemical Process Group at the Latvian State Institute of Wood Chemistry

Different thermochemical processes produce a vast array of biomass-based products from wood, lignin and other raw materials. LSIWC is equipped with laboratory and pilot scale equipment for performing various pyrolysis processes, including, catalytic and over-heated steam promoted, as well as hydrothermal carbonisation. Additionally, qualitative and quantitative characterisation of the obtained products is ensured. These processes can be integrated in a cascade biorefinery, and, depending on the process conditions, they provide such products as bio-char, nanostructured carbon materials and pyrolysis liquids (bio-oil), which are a source of valuable chemicals (anhydrosugars, such as, levoglucosan, levoglucosenone, aldehydes, organic acids and phenol derivatives). The obtained carbon materials are also modified by chemical or physical activation, and doping with nitrogen and metals, to promote applications of biomass-based carbon materials for catalysis, as well as energy conversion and storage.

Applications of biomass-based carbon materials:

- Electrochemical devices – batteries, fuel cells, supercapacitors
- Bio-electrodes for hydrolysis to obtain hydrogen
- Activated carbon as a sorbent
- Support for heterogeneous catalysts
- Soil amendment and carbon sequestration

Liquid pyrolysis products as a source of green chemicals:

- Anhydrosugars – levoglucosan, levoglucosenone and others
- Aldehydes, incl., furan derivatives
- Organic acids, such as, levulinic acid

- Aromatic compounds (phenolic aldehydes and phenolcarboxylic acids, e.g., vanillin and vanillic acid)

We produce carbons on g/kg scale:

- Porous materials with $S_{\text{BET}} > 2000 \text{ m}^2/\text{g}$
- Hard carbon materials
- Biochar for multipurpose applications

Benefits of biomass-based carbon include feedstock availability, low cost, renewability and environmental friendliness. Biomass-based precursors have a hierarchical structure, which also contributes to the formation of the necessary porosity. Carbons are multifunctional materials for sorption, ion-exchange, complexing, electrochemical and catalytic applications.
